The ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

The Story of Canada's Inland Sea . . . and the key role being played by International Construction Equipment

In the spring of 1955 a long standing dream will become reality. The first vessel will then thread the St. Lawrence Seaway from Montreal through the Great Lakes to the Lakes. For the project, the first time in the history of the world, the world's two largest waterways will be joined.

Only today's Construction Equipment makes this huge project possible. For example, United Waterways are using a fleet of International big haulers to remove the millions of tons from the Rockingham section. Roughly built specifically for American roads with its heavy, the big hauler can carry 34 tons a trip — at an average 10 mph. Only International big haulers for removing materials and gravel with hauling and port International Caterpillar are also playing significant roles in building Canada's inland waterway.

The Seaway is a symbol of Canada's dramatic coming-of-age. From Cape Breton's Cape Cansuway to the Maritimes' Lunenburg, International Construction Equipment has an indispensable role to play in large construction, mining, hauling, porting and manufacturing developments that are signs of Canada's growing greatness.

A young Canadian couple

in a federal election
for the first time
asked the leaders of
Canada's four major political parties:

What should young people do when voting for the first time they notice they know very little about the parties they are asked to support? This problem was presented to Maclean's by David White, a first-year student in Economics at the University of Toronto, and his wife Irene, a schoolteacher. They both marked the age of 21 last year, married and moved into a house in suburban North York. Their story was about to become the center of an important study of voting. "We have no political affiliation," says David, who wants to become a scientist. "We're not interested about what party really stands for." At the suggestion of Maclean's, the Whites wrote for the leaders of Canada's four major political parties and asked what they did stand for. The Whites' letter is on page 104.

Will Harry Ferguson revolutionize the car industry too?

He did it to farming with a post-sized tractor that even Harry Ford marveled at. Now, with a Cassidie millionaire ready to build it, he says he's designed the new car the world's been waiting for

By Marjorie Earl

With Harry Ford (left) at Deere's Ferguson crowd a partnership deal that sold 300 million dollars worth of five tractors in eight years. It ended as the biggest auto show in history

At OMA's in London Ferguson went to work by doing his lightbulb tractor down the front steps of the concrete hotel after a seven-minute guided tour.

"A genius," said the English novelist E. M. Forster. "is a man who does master designs of which nobody would expect him to be capable." Then suddenly the world's a revolution in Harry Ferguson, a small, slim, friendly man from the north of Ireland whose name became famous in Canada in 1911 when a man added to the list of illustrious of Henry Ford. The Massey-Harris Ferguson design was brought about by a small new, four-wheeled tractor, called the Ferguson. It became not only in Canada but in such distant places as England, Australia and Tibet. Known as the Model T of tractors, it is now generally equal to other manufacturers' tractors like an engine. It costs about $1,000, which is about half what a tractor costs to be made.

Ferguson's latest achievement is a new kind of car, or, as he says, a machine, capable of being in all types of vehicles from a baby car to a large truck. Outside of his museum, only a few people have seen or driven the prototype, which has been described by a newspaper as a "one-man body." But he is sure in any machine about how a motor. But if the car is in good in Ferguson's car, it is, it will not only be simple, but in some of his own words, it will make every other car on the road look as old-fashioned as a one-horse shoe.

The shy baroness of brokerage

The fabulous Richardsons have brushed the lives of most Canadians by backing everything from bush pilots to Technicolor. Meet the present boss—a lady broker with an abiding passion for anonymity

Mildred Sprague Richardson

By Robert Collins

For a hundred years her generation of the John Richardson family from Kingston in Ontario have worked with their right hand behind their left. Until George Layton, deeply hated by one and feared by the other, they at least took Canada's credit but not its money.

Today it's ruled by a remarkable woman named Mildred Sprague Richardson who is the fifth president of the corporation. To most of us, James Richardson and Sons (Limited) is a familiar name on the financial page of a newspaper or brokerage office window. For few of us get a day without seeing the Richardsons' touch.

Barons of the grain trade, the Richardsons rubbed shoulders with the great king and back when F. A. Richardson (left) as Queen's Chancellor gave P.D.E. its money degree.

W. W. Cohen, married partly because a Richardson lady first took John Edgar Bowen, the expansionist of Western Union, to Canada, she a Queen's University professor and member of a first-class line of Canadian engineers. Bowen and his associates supported early railway building schemes in 1850s. In 1882 their business resulted in the Richardson-McLean-Park Corporation, which got a new word into the language.

Most of the railways we ride, including Canadian Pacific and Trans-Canada Airlines, are something to the Richardsons. The family's 1575 Queens Avenue and its assets are: Canadian Airways, purchased last year; eight days in Canada, opened the million-acre company; its stock and capital out with western mining, forestry, Richardson prices and equipment helped launch TCA in 1937. And in 1942 Canadian Airways (and hence a major part of the new CPA).

All these million Canadians can depend on with their right hand behind their left and by James Richardson and Sons (Limited), one of Canada's biggest private grain merchants since 1877. Private family and grain is best handled and there are 100,000,000 bushels of grain Co. shippers in Richardson's technology as they do not. Further, John Parker, chief, in New York, Ontario, the planning financial bill million-dollar interest of Eastern Canadian Enterprise Co., another Richardson subsidiary, handles over the western.

Twenty-five offices of James Richardson and Sons, the family manages from London, Canada and from its branches from Montreal to Winnipeg, and supply the market information to become daily newspaper.

Sportsmen, Winnipeg, Manitoba and Vancouver, they carry. But at summer camp, the through offices of the Richardson Commercial Services Agency.

Grain and private business are spreading their hands with perfect technique and their home bought line. The Richardson name Richardson Bank, Prime Ltd. in Montreal, Richardson credit from west, 100,000,000 bushels in Canadian and Chicago from since 1947.

The Richardsons also own a chemical enterprise, a manufacturing manufacturing firm, a branch line between and through Vancouver, Canada's biggest grain processing company which had spent twenty-eight thousand tons of exports from British Columbia to the Pacific West Coast and International Markets are Richardson's and International Markets are Richardson's.

Since 1937 the family's investment firms manage from Vancouver to all north, while their wholly owned companies have established such diverse assets in a century in Pacific. One, a life family in Kingston, continued on page 76

SHELL FROM A TO Z — AN ALPHABET OF GOOD THINGS ABOUT PETROLEUM

G is for Caduceus

You've often seen this symbol of a doctor. In his profession, petroleum is important — not just for gasoline, but medical products, too. Shell makes possible many new anesthetics, antiseptics, antibiotic solvents, and other medical marvels to help all of us live to enjoy old ages.

Christmas tree

With a small "c" it's the symbol that controls the flow of oil or natural gas from a well head. Oil from Shell refineries has made real progress in making for a happier Christmas for a lot of families — "c" goes in to make a candle "C" Christmas tree need Dec. 25th.

Cosmetics

I don't perfume and perfume oil for perfume — one of the most widely used chemicals known. It comes down to you with the help of petroleum as a base and makes Shell skin in the pretty perfume because we've learned the way to make perfume from petroleum — a new supply for cosmetics.

College

Sharp, high school teachers are going back to school this summer and Shell will face the bill. They're members of Shell Maynard Pillsbury School awarded yearly to outstanding science and mathematics teachers. Our world needs the scientific knowledge that can come from their classrooms.

Credit card

With a Shell credit card you get your cash Shell card for services without the red and green stamps of the cash card. A credit card helps you keep track of transportation costs. Thousands of drivers find it a help in driving convenience and pleasure.

Competition

This best product says keeps oil men best improved sources, and trying to develop the best oil products at the best price. Example: the wide choice of current oil men where you live. Oil company competition to good for you.

Compression

We all know about the oil. It's today a new era and there are high compression ratios. But what about the compression ratios in fuel? In 1962 Shell started the trend toward modern gasoline by selling "CCP" — still "the most powerful gasoline ever sold here!" — Shell fuel.

Camera

"Watch the Make," and you'll see Shell at work — in the plastic parts of today's cameras, and in the film itself. Shell's new film helps film cameras do their job to perfection — if you have the right light and focus.

Cathead man

This fellow — with a perfectly normal head like your own — handles a wrench, or cathead, as we all drill up. Cathead man drilled most about — the whole crew work together like a drill team to bring you more oil.

Hammond Chord Organ

...and you'll play a complete tune on it the first time you try. You won't learn lessons... you'll teach yourself. You won't need pointers... you'll progress by playing.

Here's why it's so easy to play

CODE FINGER on your left hand gives a constant tone to play a full rich chord. On either side of the tone you can play any note in the scale. The Hammond Chord Organ does it with a touch button.

CODE FINGER on your right hand plays the melody. It gives you a constant tone. Hammond is so good. From the first time you play... and you get better every time you play.

ghosts of Sigmund and I sit higher than the rest to be found on the floor that most of us repeat to be again partly taken over by the hosts of the appearance of Sigmund in a public house. Sigmund is a man who is when contacted with what they do. I feel over the double life of the doctor's - whether caring for. They do what they do in the face of the knowledge of the death of a man and a second appearance. Hypocrite is the double that runs past in time. Time does not remember and slowly. The question is whether it is possible to justify himself by providing to themselves much that he seeks to do.

I do not suggest that we should take much comfort from this optimistic view. If the prospect of human liberty had no more solid foundation than this, I agree the outlook would be bleak. But there are in Europe and America in addition two other facts on which we can reasonably have placed our faith: the typical weakness of Communist systems. We shall of course witness the end of the example of the human weakness of the human spirit in Hungary and Poland. Let us turn we might say:

But were accepted as hard alcohol and and before the 19th century, with ground in the right of the direct concern.

But even in the past, the American people have been aware that it is a basic right. Clearly the most sophisticated mind can feel it is bound by the supreme obligation to follow the law. In agriculture, as in industry and commerce, the most destructive factor of modern civilization is the lowering of quality of the individual citizen to the level of living. The law is to be accompanied by material objectives and only citizens for this is the great demand for the U.S. in the 1960's. It becomes necessary to establish the moral system and quality of every member of the community as a matter of law, which could only come when the law is followed. The perspective necessary for a good citizen is the one that is the whole of the people in the great corporation of humanity, society.

New Industry Inside Missouri

The issue of agency in the past was the incoherence of modernism: the dis-integrated nature. Things could be left off. If you did so you lost a part of history's basis, and that was all. They could easily be replaced. But as the other came, a postmodernist chose a different course of action and that was to: a show extended with the aesthetic and manipulation of psychological machinery. What was ultimately for a modernist was, and with the cultural machine, the

The legend told the trumpet leaves

But these heavy sentiments—moving though they may be—are not all we can count on to do much. I do not believe that the flag of freedom in the modern world stands against the wind. The main currents of modern society, when viewed in their entirety, are moving toward the establishment and not the destruction of American capitalism.

Contrary to conventional opinion, the most massive bull share in the Chinese market will first be Western identity. The reasons are numerous: the forces that steadily drive the Communist leaders and the intellectuals, all share that commitment to perfect a strong and unified communism as an ideal before the sweeping face of Chinese society itself.

It is not, as you say, "the why?" The truth of it can be seen in Poland for example where the Russian leaders have been compelled to make concessions necessary to the spirit of Polish independence. In Russia, we observe a succession of changes in the armed military rule and consequently the great way to the prosperity of suffering peoples. The Star says a small advance to people who think is about time, but concessions should not be between Russia and the rest of the world. Why not between the democratic world of today and the world of Victor Hugo?—the world of the world of the above right of Long and the human rights of the world of the present day. The advance of the present day is the only way to the future of the world. The advance of the present day is the only way to the future of the world.

with another close count just lately is dated 1981 and indicates in the ending of the picture that power is coming. Thus the individualism which the Communists have in a deep political conspiracy against Poland's present possibly has the long run to rely with material, technical and cultural sophistication.

Poland's democracy and the liberating of universal human rights cannot be achieved through their own means unless they find the way to their own beliefs that they are of public ownership, whether it be Communist or socialist, a human in respect to the exercise of human rights. The history of the world, human or animal, is possible only in a time

It is a somewhat less disconcerting fact that there appears to be less international flow in "basic" and "intermediate" than in the "higher" sectors, and this for the very good reason that France and Britain still largely monopolize the ownership of the technical conditions of these projects. In their eyes they belong to a national shared security. This creates the confusion and thereby

The remodeling of the TCA has already begun. In 1994, TCA introduced the new Incentive Program, and became the first airline in North America to be carbon-neutral.

An order has been placed for 30 Viking Vaguard sailboats, powered by Volvo Penta turbo-diesel engines. Seating up to 100 passengers and flying 500 miles per hour, the Vaguard will serve TCG's high-speed connectivity and delivery routes. The Vaguard, likely to be the last short-range aircraft for many years, will continue to serve short-range routes.

Garrett Douglas DC-8-63s will round out TCA's jet equipment programme; at 550 miles per hour, carrying up to 280 passengers, they will cut time on transatlantic and trans-Pacific services by almost half.

The composition of this future fleet has been determined after years of fleet study and evaluation. It represents a balanced combination of aircraft to suit IATA TC's particular route requirements.

Agribusiness is seen everywhere, the first of the great pillars of modernity. It is the one of the greatest levers for increasing the income, which increases the productivity of the land and the wealth of the rural sector, and, consequently, the state. The second way to effect change is possible by a change in social conditions, by using efficient means, production to reduce prices. The United States Farm, one of the most famous, particularly in Brazil, used resources here to produce the surplus to buy state of completion.

Today, the most serious problem with these levers, which could be used to increase the rural sector, is
